

CORINTHIAN NOTES.

At a meeting held at Mr. Alex Corsair's camp to consider the medical fund question, Messrs. W. Smith and B. Longmore, of Bullfinch, spoke at length. Mr. J. E. Chadwick was in the chair, and three delegates were appointed to go into details about the matter. It was arranged to pay 1/- per week to the doctor who was coming to Bullfinch, and to get him to visit Corinth three times a week.

Last Saturday the two Martins, Clem and Shanks, played a billiard match of 200 up on a private table for the championship of Corinth. Shanks won by 20, and is now so vain that he has to be placed in a straight
