The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a diamond cluster ring, and to the first maid a gold Australia; to the train-bearer, a gold Nellie Stewart bangle. The bride's gift to the bridegroom was a gold watch and gold sleeve-links. The bride's mother wore a black costume, with a biscuit-coloured bonnet with black plumes, and carried a posy of red roses. The wedding breakfast was held at the Oddfellows' Hall, Lygon-street, where a large number of relatives and friends were entertained. The honeymoon was spent at Ballarat. The bride travelled in a mole gabardine costume, with a small hat of Saxe blue. The happy couple were the recipients of many handsome presents, including large cheques. A cablegram was received from Sergeant-Major Louis Orbuck, of France, also numerous telegrams.
