
Diggers' Rummy Party

In spite of the inclemency of the weather on Tuesday evening, the Diggers' rummy party at the School of Arts, Penrith, was a pleasing success, over thirty players being present. Through the generosity of Mrs L. S. Uren, who donated the hall, and Mr V. C. Freeburn, who donated the prizes, the total proceeds of the evening were a profit, and will be added to the ball fund.

Miss D. Tipping won the ladies' prize (a beautiful brass carved fruit dish), and Mr Carl Claeson—with the usual Claeson luck—won the gent's prize (a xylonite shaving dish and cream).

Supper was tastefully served up and did credit to the work of the lady workers; in fact, the whole function was organised by the ladies, and the success, both socially and financially, of the evening proves that the local sub-branch of the League is to be congratulated on the work of its lady helpers.

These good workers have arranged for another rummy evening, to be held in the School of Arts on Tuesday next, 1st August.
