

Hit light pole

Paul Kay (not King, as reported on Tuesday), proprietor of the Paddington Hotel, whose car ran off the Ipswich Road, near Oxley, into an electric light pole on Monday night, is believed to have been dazzled by the lights of another car.

Kay sustained injuries to his ribs. Others injured were: Mrs. Tatyana Feborenko, 41, also of the hotel, lacerations to the face and head, and her daughter, Helen, 15, lacerations to the left temple. Others in the car who were not injured were Cladia Belov, 45, and Nurse L. Kolocow, 24.
